

Various WorkOne Resources Can Help Employers Develop, Expand and Train those Crucial Assets—Your People

Employers Can Tap into WorkOne's Facilities, Technology Assets, Human Resources Expertise, and Training and Education Leadership to Boost Workforces

WorkOne's resources help employers hire the right people and develop their workforces in efficient ways that are appropriate for each company.

WORKONE'S ONSITE FACILITIES

Provide Convenience and Technology

Your local WorkOne Center offers centrally located facilities, technology, and assistance for interviewing, screening, training, and other workforce development tasks. We can even provide administrative support.

WORKER LAYOFF ASSISTANCE

Eases Transitions

As an employer, have you ever faced a seasonal layoff, restructuring, or closure of a facility? WorkOne's experts can assist you in complying with government regulations, meeting business needs, and offering reemployment assistance for your workers.

GET UP-TO-DATE

Labor Market Information

Whether you're interested in the latest statistics on pay ranges, job availability and trends, or job applicant characteristics, WorkOne has top-notch analysis and data for you. Employers may choose from a variety of data-rich reports and resources. WorkOne provides local, state, and national statistics and trends through our Labor Market Information section.

WORKKEYS JOB PROFILING

Identifies Skills for Success

For employers and hiring managers, understanding the skills required in an occupation or specific job is among the initial steps in hiring the right applicant, or in upgrading an employee's skills. In this light, WorkOne can help qualifying employers access the WorkKeys job-profiling and assessment system to accomplish this task.

EDUCATION AND TRAINING FOR

Workforce Development

Companies can enhance their workforce by providing training in basic adult education and workplace topics, literacy, and GED preparation and testing. Education and training programs are available onsite either at WorkOne or at our educational partners. Additionally, certain employers may qualify for training grant opportunities.

EARN TAX CREDITS

for Hiring Workers Transitioning from Welfare

In hiring individuals who are proceeding from welfare to self-sufficiency, employers may be eligible for the Work Opportunity Tax Credit (WOTC) and Welfare to Work programs. For information on eligibility and applications, go to tax credits.
