

Government Offers Abundant Opportunities To Assist Companies in Training Workers To Tackle Job Duties

Employers Can Tap into State and Federal Programs Right Here!

Various state and federal agencies offer grants and incentives to businesses to help train workers, and Indiana employers may qualify for some of these dollars. The quickest way to find out whether you might qualify is to contact your WorkOne Business Services Representative to get a speedy referral to the appropriate contact.

Indiana Department of Workforce Development

The Indiana Department of Workforce Development (IDWD), working with local WorkOne Centers, administers Indiana's employment and training programs, as well as the unemployment insurance system. The department counts among its services numerous grants and funding opportunities that may assist qualified employers with some of their training needs. Details are available by visiting www.in.gov/dwd.

Indiana Economic Development Corporation

The Indiana Economic Development Corporation (IEDC) is the state's leading economic growth agency (replacing the former Department of Commerce). In addition, IEDC oversees grant and loan programs, tax incentives, and many other business- and community-assistance programs.
